

Clockwork Heart: While in the process of creating the Modrons, Primus created a clockwork heart. Since this heart wasn't useful to making the Modrons he set it aside and forgot about it. In order to attune to this artifact you must hold it pressed to your heart for one hour. The artifact slowly enters your chest and fuses with your heart. Un-attuning kills the person because the artifact can't be unfused from their heart.

While attuned to this artifact you have advantage on death saving throws. Also you can open up a portal that leads to the plane of Mechanus or back to the material plane from Mechanus once per day. Modrons recognize Primus' creation and will avoid fights with the person attuned the clockwork heart unless they are attacked. Once a creature has attuned to the Clockwork Heart, they begin to gradually lose the ability to feel emotion and instead become more logical.